twenty-nine

dedication

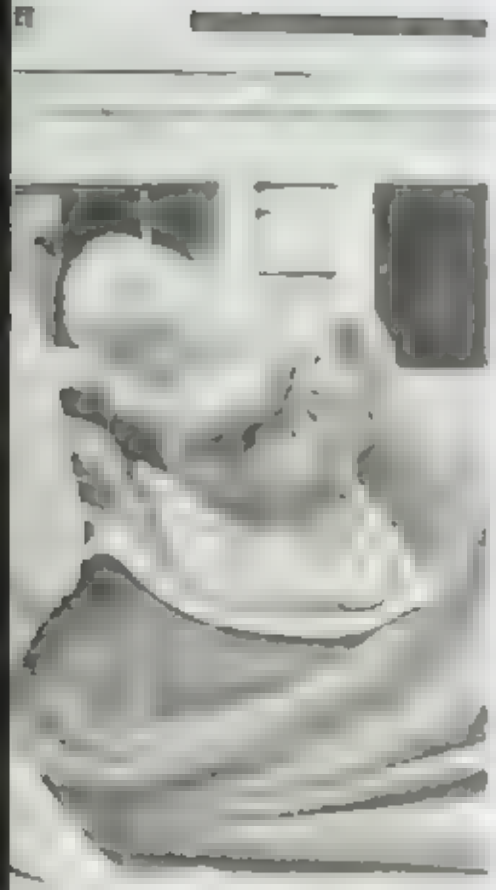

This year the El Portal Staff proudly dedicates the 51st edition to Mrs. Dorothy Slaton who has been a member of the faculty for a total of twenty-nine years. During that time she has served as an English and Journalism instructor and as a counselor.

Her outside interests include collecting seahorses, patronizing plays, art museums, and concerts. While one of her favorite home activities is canning fruit.

The El Portal Staff would like to take this opportunity to thank Mrs. Slaton for the many years of service she has given so generously to students at Tracy High.

Registration and back to school dance featured in fall season

The first harbinger of the school year was student registration. Sorry to see the lazy days of summer pass, but anxious over the prospect of the coming school year, students lined up in front of the Social Studies Building to receive their class schedules. Assisting with registration were the counselors and Department Chairmen.

Drawing a climax to the busy first week of the school was the P.T.A. sponsored Back-To-School Dance. Students vibrated to the sound of the Gabe Christopher and munched on refreshments provided by P.T.A.

Spirit brings it all together

The 1972-73 rally season surpassed any precedent established for spirit in recent years. Rally Commissioner Norma Paisley has succeeded in captivating the spirit of Tracy High.

Greater class participation than ever before has been noted. To say the least, the skits were surprising and always entertaining. Frequently, Mr. Moe was found holding his breath as the next skit unfolded.

The annual Girls Treat Dance sponsored by the Girl's League of Tracy High School is always an event that girls await in great anticipation. Traditions are reversed, for girls are allowed to do the asking while boys are left in the position to accept or decline an invitation for this unusual evening.

Girls traditionally assume the expenses for the evening. They must purchase the bids and boutonnieres. In some cases boys are lucky enough to even be taken out to dinner. The "73" Girls Treat proved to be a huge success. Boys donned ties and dress shirts, while girls came in their Sunday best.

Spotlights behind the scene

Rarely do audiences realize the effort and work that goes into preparation for opening night. Assuming of course that the young thespians have memorized their lines, lighting prompting, backstage directing and make-up are but a few of the other important details which must be dealt with efficiently and effectively.

Young actors at Tracy High have an opportunity to actively engage in all of these learning experiences under the enthusiastic leadership of Mr. Don Bisbee. This year's production of "On Borrowed Time" displayed the talents of crewmen who are often overlooked in high school productions.

Campus Life, an organization that attempts to get teen-agers together for rap sessions and involvement, is big at Tracy High. Although Campus Life is not sponsored by the school many hundreds of students participate in their annual Burger Bash which is held in September. Also students donate their time helping the club make the yearly haunted house in Stockton a huge success. Our hats are off to those who help young people get together.

New Learning Experiences Through Field Trips

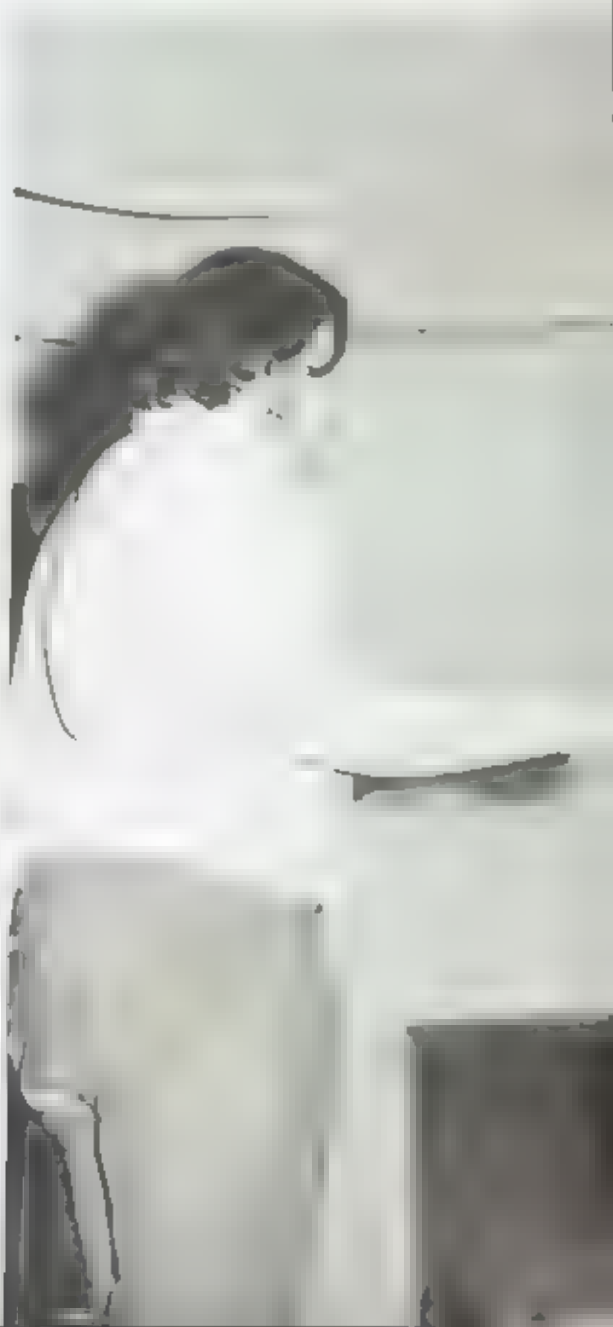

Field trips taken by various classes of Tracy High are days spent away from the traditional classroom atmosphere of learning. However these outings should not be mistaken as simply a day away from school, for learning experiences take on new ways. This year the science club took trips to the radiation lab in Livermore and later had the experience of visiting the Exploratorium in San Francisco.

The El Portal visited its new Publishers in Orinda, California where students had the opportunity to look through hundreds of award winning books. Early in the fall both Scholar and Athlete and El Portal had journeyed to Sacramento to attend a one day workshop at Sacramento State College. Although field trips have received some criticism by a few staff members most teachers feel that trips of this kind can contribute to the quality of education that educators are seeking.

"David and Lisa" adapted into play form by James Reach opened January 20, 1973. It was the most successful non-musical presented in recent years. "David and Lisa" centered around the changes in two mentally-disturbed students. David who feared death if anyone touched him and Lisa, a schizophrenic who one minute was the pixie-like Lisa and the next minute-Muriel who didn't speak in rhymes like Lisa. The Year the Mouse Roared!

"For years 'student government' has meant little more than a small clique of students involved in what amounted to a frustrating Punch and Judy Act. This year two significant steps were taken to scissor the marionette strings that have restrained our student body in the past. For the first time, a student representative sits with the school board at its regular meetings. More importantly, with the adoption of district policy, students have finally become 'persons' and are entitled to the same constitutional rights as any citizen. As a result of these developments, students, more than ever before, stand in a position to make meaningful contributions to the future of their school.

Hopefully, this year is the start of a new era in student government at Tracy High. Perhaps the puppet show is over.

Rosemary Proclaims Tracy High as Alma Mater

"This year will be one I will never forget. I have had lots of fun meeting people and seeing places I've read about — Disneyland, Yellowstone, Los Angeles, and San Francisco. But the best part of my year has been living here in Tracy. Everyone is so friendly and I feel like I've lived here all my life. This year has really shown me that people are people everywhere, despite their different life styles. Tracy High will always be my Alma Mater.

Teamwork Binds Yearbook Together

The gateway to success is through hard work as many El Portal staff members have learned. To achieve their goal, they have spent many hours working laboriously to meet their deadlines.

Last summer four staff members Mark Garcia, Cheryl Gabbard, Hugh Crawford, and Georgette Landis journeyed to a week-long yearbook seminar held in Santa Barbara with their advisor, Mrs. Landis. Along with their enthusiasm, they brought back many ideas to present to the 1973 yearbook staff.

S&A Says It Straight

The Scholar and Athlete more commonly known amongst Tracy High students as the S&A is published twice a month by a hard working staff under the guidance of their advisor Mrs. Emma Souza.

This year the S&A found themselves without a chief editor; therefore page editors were assigned.

The responsibility of a publication of this kind is tremendous. Deadlines must be met with creative and accurate reporting of campus news and events.

A new feature was added to the school paper last year called student view point. This feature is most likely one of the favorites with students. It gives them the opportunity to speak out on topics which concern them. Students have been given the opportunity to voice opinions on topics which concern them in campus affairs.

Hard Work Pays Off

Work experience allows students to participate in various kinds of jobs and receive credit toward graduation while working part of the school day. Students earning credits must be employed for a minimum of ten hours a week before he is accepted in the program.

Director of the program, Mr. E. Bortz, and coordinators Mr. R. Home, and Mr W. Fields provide related school instruction. Films are viewed and weekly reports prepared by the students are evaluated by the coordinators. Employers are also visited by the director to help keep lines of communication open.

Outstanding Scholars

Sixteen Tracy High seniors won awards in the annual Bank of America Achievement contest.

This nationwide program for honoring scholastic achievement will allow the four general recipients to compete for zone and state cash awards.

Students excelling in their field of studies were chosen by their instructors. Decisions were based primarily on scholastic ability, though participation in school and community activities were also taken into consideration.

In January the orchestra participated in the Stanislaus Music Festival in Modesto. Two members of the orchestra, Heidi Heinbockel and Carl Anderson received top chairs in the festival.

A select strings ensemble of first chair players was organized this year. The group includes: Gail McCurry, Carl Anderson, Vicki Myers, Jill Hamilton, and Heidi Heinbockel. The ensemble presented special Christmas music for the annual faculty Christmas dinner and performed in rest homes in Stockton during the Christmas season.

Special awards during the year went to Heidi Heinbockel, who was accepted in the all California Symphony orchestra.

Bulldogs Endure a Season of Rebuilding

With only a few returning lettermen, this year's football team had to "rebuild." The Bulldogs started out slow-scoring; their first touchdown came during the third game of the season. Even with the slow start, the Bulldogs ended in fourth place of the S.J.A.A. League. Spirit and enthusiasm among the students and spectators went down greatly. Without the Pep Club, a boosters section was formed. These students received great seats but many refused to cheer the Bulldogs on. Our team was full of surprises. They would win games when the other team was highly favored, and lose games where we were favored. This year our team learned defeat and victory. It was a difficult year trying to rebuild the team and form a good one at the same time.

Fantastic Freshmen Finish First

The Class of "76" had a tremendous season in football this year. Led by Head-Coach Don Juelke and assistants Mike Miller and Gary Abate, the Bullpuppies went through an eight game schedule undefeated.

Leading the tough frosh defense, that gave up only 34 points, were Carl Dumlaa, John Silva, Ron Nunley, Dan Hernandez, David Yroz, and Joey Ortega. Outstanding on the offensive team that scored 287 points were ball carriers Earl Dumlaa, Paul Chacon, and Jody Perry. Quarterback Bob Fagundes passed for 526 yards and 10 touchdowns. Leading pass receivers were Paul Chacon, Earl Dumlaa, Steve Escobar, and Ron Nunley. Greg Medina, Paul Bogetti, Mike Stone, John Serpa, and Bob Gori were the offensive line stalwarts.

Diane Souza Reigns Over Homecoming

As fall made its impression on school activities, senior girls became conscious of the possibility that they may be nominated for the position of Homecoming Queen. Hopes and spirit of the girls ran high as the November day for nomination approached.

For the past two years the Boys Block T has had the privilege of nominating seven senior girls for this honor. The fate of who would reign as the 1972 Homecoming Queen was left in the hands of the senior boys and the varsity football squad.

The nominees were kept in suspense until the queen was named at the traditional Homecoming Rally. This year's queen, Miss Diane Souza reigned over the Homecoming festivities. She led the annual parade and was presented again that evening to a host of Tracy spectators at the Homecoming game against Lincoln High. Everyone agreed that she made a most gracious and charming queen.

Enthusiasm and Pride Lead to Success

In spite of students protesting that one day would not be adequate time for assembling class floats, the 1973 Homecoming Parade proved to be as successful as years gone by.

New to the event this year was the enthusiasm and pride shown by all students who had raced diligently against time to complete their floats on schedule.

All students had three weeks to prepare for the big day. Classes met at the various homes of their classmates to make flowers, signs, and masks of paper mache. The Senior Class had prepared so well that they were the first to assemble their float on the day of the parade. However, even though they were super organized, the Junior Class took first prize in class floats while Radio Club and the Sophomore Class took second and third respectively.

Coach Steve Donahue felt the improvement over last year's season was one which any layman could easily detect. This year's varsity team, under the leadership of captains Steve Wallace and Dave Simpson, placed fourth in league play.

The biggest upset in the league took place in Tracy's tank when the Bulldogs defeated the Downey High Knights of Modesto.

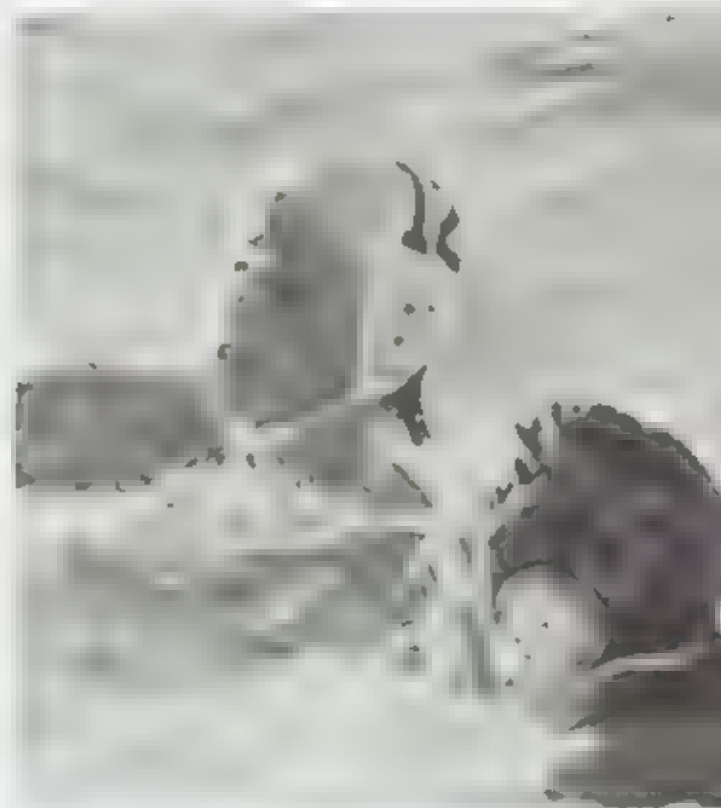

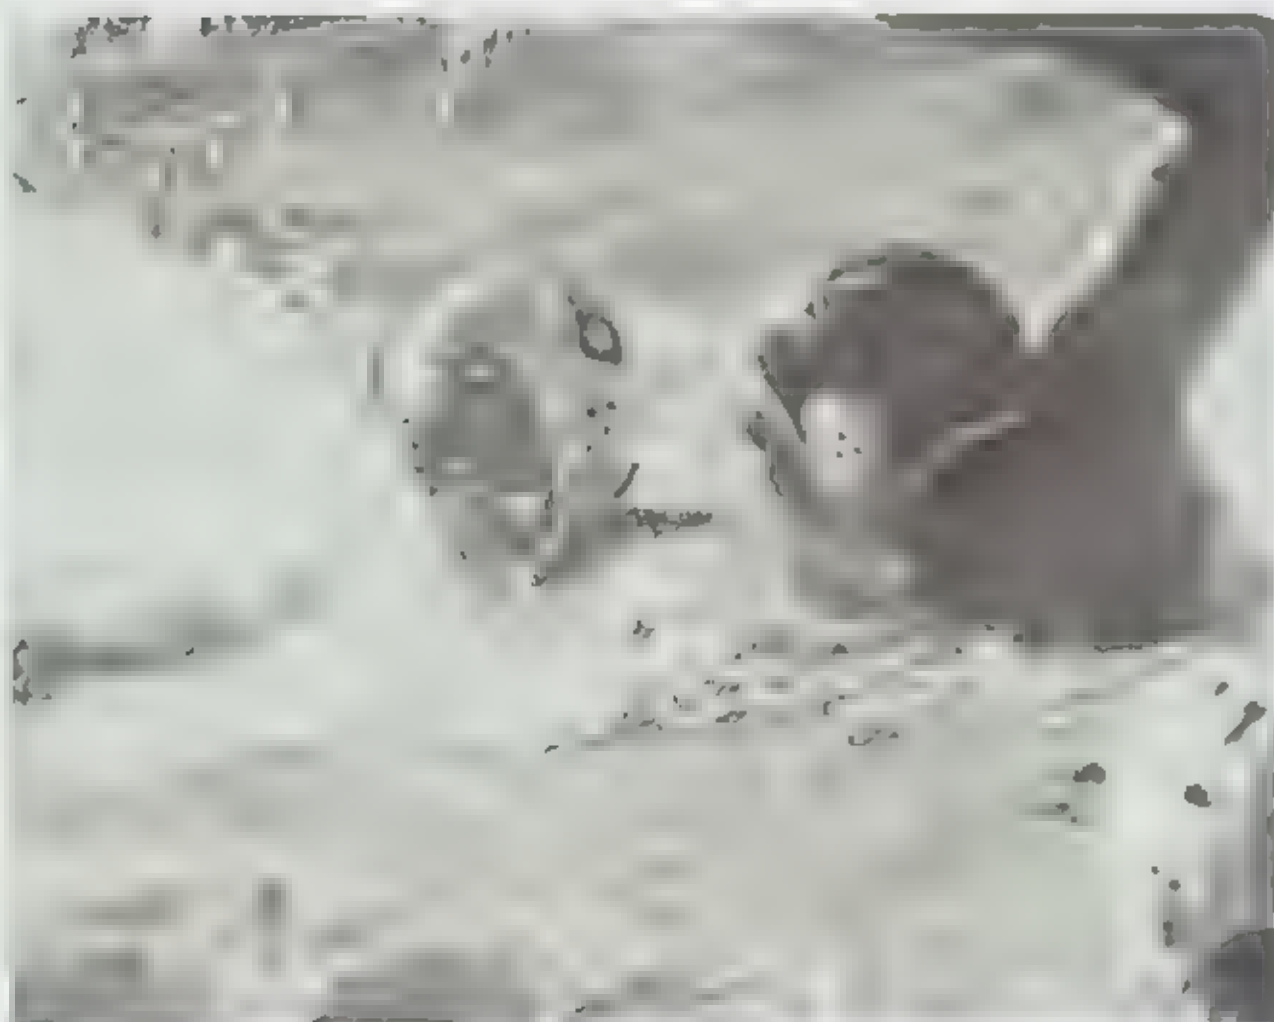

Awards for outstanding players went to Steve Wallace and Dave Simpson while the most improved player went to Mike (Cha Cha) Nevin.

The frosh-soph team had one of the most successful teams Tracy has ever had. Bringing home the consolation trophy for the section tournament was one of the exciting events of the year. Leading the frosh-soph in their season were Dave Baker and Dennis Butcher.

Great school spirit and the Bulldogs determination to achieve was the highlight of the '72-'73 cross country team.

Another teammate who emerged from oblivion to qualify for the State Tournament was Alex Ramirez. Bulldogs Never Gave Up

Although the Bulldogs finished last with a 2-10 record, their enthusiasm and love for basketball never faltered throughout the entire season. Each game was faced with a "we are going to win" attitude. Never once during the season did any player go out on the court with a defeated attitude. Each player gave of himself throughout the hard fought and disappointing season. If fans were but a bit disillusioned, how do you think the players must have felt? But never once did they show it. What more can we ask of any team?

The smashing performances of the Bullpuppies on the basketball court earned them the S.J.A.A. title for the '72-73" season. Many agree that this year's freshman class has that certain combination of ingredients that when put together makes for good team play. The puppies fantastic performance in both basketball and football have earned for them the many plaudits they deserve in the line of sports. Spirit Comes in All Shapes and Sizes

Cheerleaders are one of the most important persons in raising spirit and enthusiasm at school. Without them, football and basketball games take on quite a different atmosphere.

Ten girls received some training and techniques this summer at a cheerleading clinic in Squaw Valley. Both varsity and frosh-soph squads received superior ratings along with many excellent evaluations.

Many people have the impression that cheerleaders have all fun without any work involved. What a misleading thought! During the summer months, practices are held every night, and preparation for all rallies need extra time also. During school, there is a mandatory practice every Thursday night. The end result, is practice makes perfect. Needless to say all the girls this year displayed energetic enthusiasm and talent, while keeping the Bulldogs spirit high.

Spirit is the Name of the Game

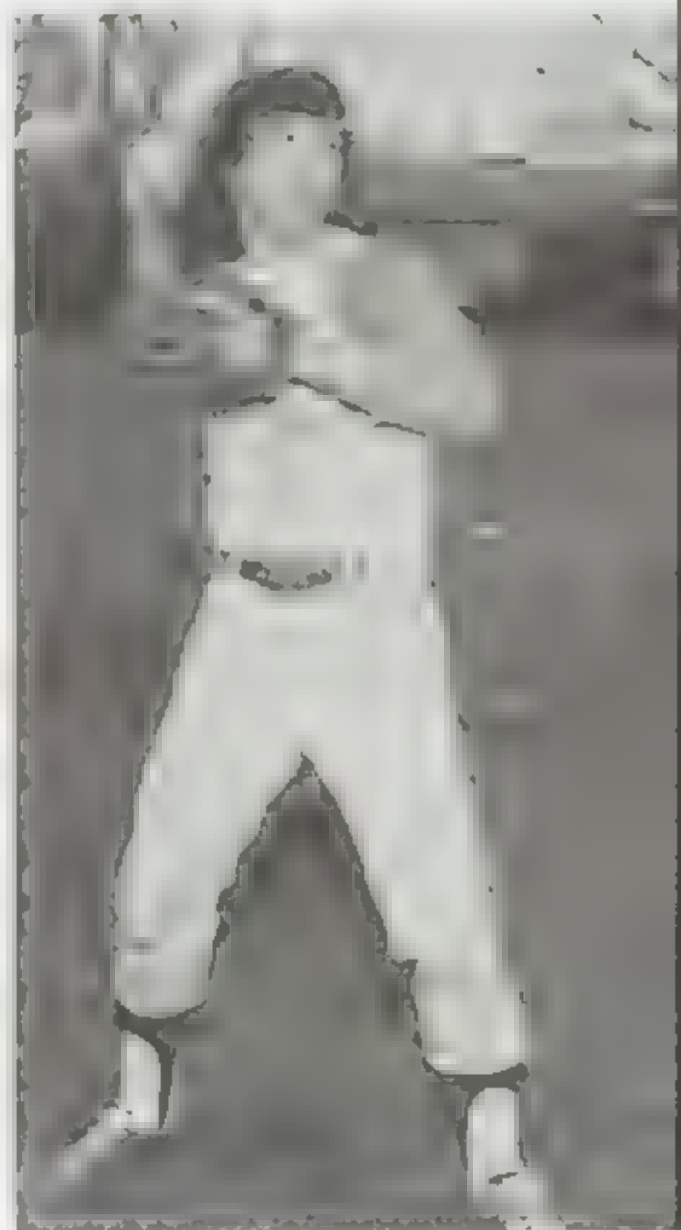

What would cheering sections be without songleaders and mascots? This year there were eight songleaders and two vivacious mascots to finish the final touches in the spirit of Tracy High. Freshmen cheerleaders were formed for the first time ever. They led yells for their fellow classmates at both football and basketball games.

Songleaders added pep and rhythm to rallies and games with their lively dancing routines. Many of the routines were learned at songleaders camp where they received several first place ribbons. The girls came back ready to perform and please the 1973 spectators.

With the promising talent of starting pitcher, Brian Mizuno, the Bulldogs are hoping for a season that will rank them high. Brian, a returning letterman who won the distinction of being named to the second all-star team last year, along with pitcher Len Gonsalves, began the season by pitching a ten inning no-hitter game against Manteca.

Bulldogs also have their hopes on Mizuno to pull them through on batting.

Franzö Sisch? Nein! Deutsch? Ja!

Under the leadership of a new advisor Manfred Korge, the German Club experienced a very active year. Among their activities were a snow trip taken to Bumblebee in mid-January, and visits to various college campuses. Scheduled for early spring were trips to San Francisco and Santa Cruz.

The club's fund raising events were selling candy sponsoring a booth during football season, and holding a car wash. The German Club also enthusiastically participated in this year's Homecoming Parade by entering a car which placed second in the car competition.

At this writing, plans were being made to also participate in the annual A.F.S. Day which will be held sometime in May.

White's Lab Wizards

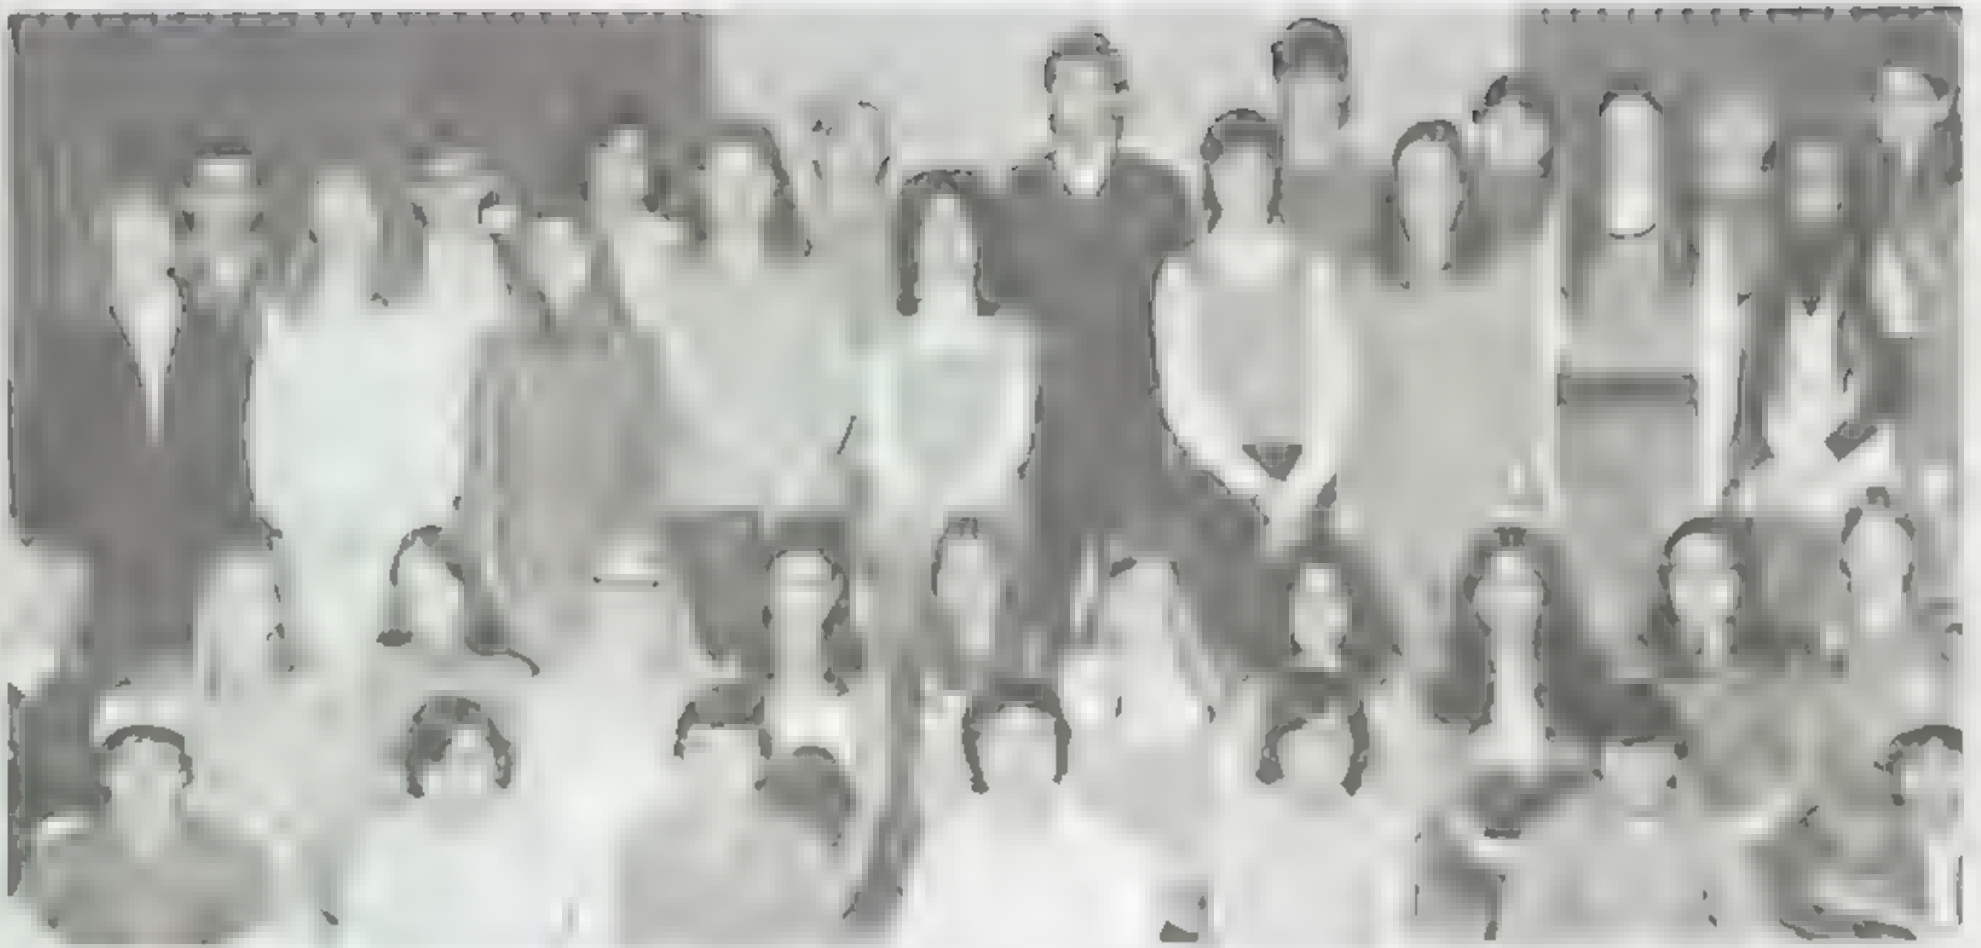

Science Club, known for the enthusiastic participation of its members, has taken an active part in field trips this year.

In early autumn, the club journeyed to Lawrence Radiation Lab in Livermore and toured its facilities with students from other area schools. In January, a field trip to the Exploratorium in San Francisco was taken. A trip to Stockton to study electrical engineering was scheduled for early spring.

The club also donated a radio to the Math-Science Learning Center. Members in general feel that the Math-Science Learning Center has greatly initiated motivation within the club.

Students were housed in the valley dorms and each confessed to the pure joy they received in the sun and slopes of Squaw. Many returned with faces so sunburned that one may have mistaken the month to be June — not mid-February.

Chess Challenges Future Champions

C.S.F. Motivates Master Minds

C.S.F. activities are not unlike those of other student organizations. It is important, however, that the program of a chapter reflect the honorary, scholastic, and service nature of the higher academic achievers.

Activities include a tutorial program organized with the counseling program on a scheduled basis; acting as guides for eighth graders on orientation day and one or more free day trips to places of interest of the member's choosing. Proceeds from the refreshment booth which the club maintains at basketball games are used to purchase Life Membership pins and cords worn at commencement exercises. Classes

Butler Boosts Senior Class

The 1973 Senior Class took pride in the super organization displayed by their president Scott Butler. Scott with the help of his officers, Paul Teranishi and Nicki Bowen, helped lead his class to a climatic if not victorious finish on Homecoming Day. Certainly one cannot say that the defeat of the seniors was due to lack of organization. Hats came off for Scott and his crew Seniors also joined the ranks of winners by capturing the spirit award at the Homecoming Rally.

Other events followed in the spring. Leading these activities were the traditional Senior Picnic, Senior Ball, and Senior Tea

Senior Spotlight

Each senior has contributed in some way to the class of 73. It would be virtually impossible to name them all. However, this year the El Portal staff would like to recognize a few of these students.

This recognition is not limited to scholastic achievement alone. Various areas of achievement range from the "ugliest man on campus" to the "crowning of a queen." Hopefully, years from now, the reader will look back and remember the greatness of the class of 73.

Senior Personalities

Senior, "se-nyar n.: a person with higher standing or rank." The definition is so true for the class of "73." With 375 students, the seniors are represented by all types of personalities, some being noticed more than others. The El Portal staff composed a list of twelve different categories, and sent them out to all senior English classes. Every senior is eligible to vote for any one of their choices. Ballots are counted and one boy and girl in each category receiving the most votes win. Personalities ran from "most shy" to "campus clown."

The seniors of "73" will soon graduate in June, many going on to higher things. But always at Tracy High, there will remain the memory of their presence

Remonda rallies class spirit

Junior Class President Liz Remonda went before the homecoming committee as a spokesman for the Junior Class. Students felt that they should keep the traditional way of decorating class floats. Even though they didn't succeed in their appeal, the juniors, under the guidance of class officers, went on to win first place in float competition. The key to their success was good planning and cooperation.

Caporusso leads sophomores to captivating titles

The officers of the Sophomore Class may indeed be proud of their accomplishments.

They have led their class to victory on both the football field and in spirit. The sophomore team placed first in the S.J.A.A. Conference.

In the Homecoming float competition, the Class of '75" placed second in class floats and third in overall competition. Our hats are off to the Soph Class and its leaders for a job well done.

Administration

Administrators Generate Community Involvement

Principal

Most students have a very limited view of the important man on campus, Principal Bev Frye.

Among his varied interests are swimming and sculpting. He is currently learning to play the guitar.

This year Mr. Frye has become very involved with Dr. William Glasser's book, "Schools Without Failure." Mr. Frye feels his most important responsibility as an administrator is keeping the lines of communication open between students and the community.

Superintendent

While the business of running a school district occupies most of his time, Superintendent James R. French still manages to find time to visit friends and to work in his garden.

Although Mr. French enjoys such things as visiting museums and art galleries he confessed that most of his evenings are spent dealing with the problems encountered in administration.

One major issue of concern in the school district this year which demanded much of his time was that of the bond issue pertaining to the replacement of the West Building

Mr. French TOP with his secretary Thelma Douglas, Mrs. Douglas FAR LEFT taking a quick break for a few practice sessions with her favorite sport. Mr. French readying his garden for the fall season

Students Represented in Board Meetings

Everybody has read a three or four paragraph story in the paper about the school board meetings. Yet nobody ever hears the story behind the story; the meetings sometimes lasting past midnight, the 47 page folders that must be read, the countless hours of preparation that go into being a trustee. No matter what their decision on any subject, the board has learned to expect a hail of criticism. They receive no pay and little praise, although they do quite a job. This year especially they took a giant step forward, seating a representative of the student body. Now, for the first time, the students have a voice in the decisions that directly affect us. As the student representative, it has been a privilege to work with the board this year.

Service With Involvement

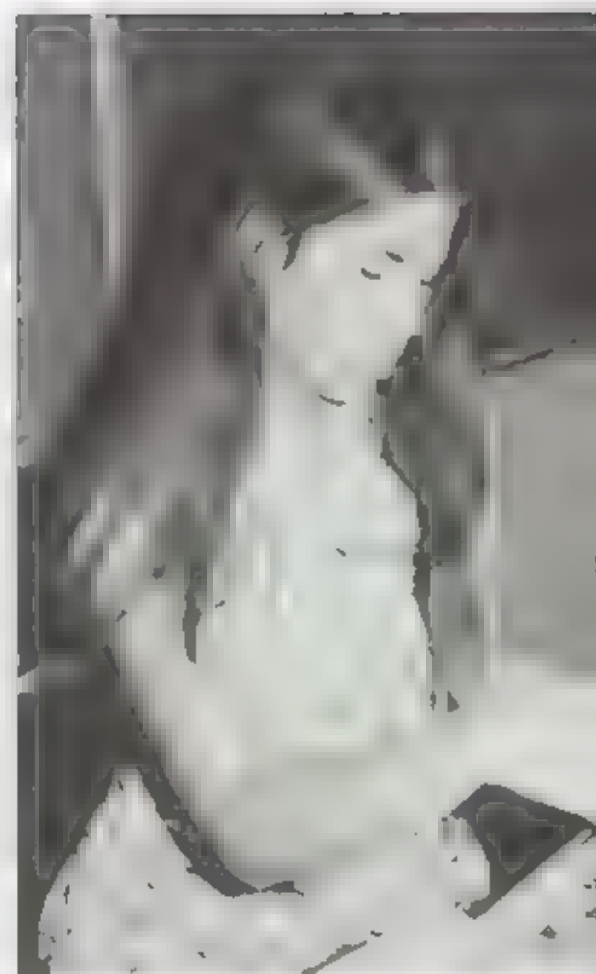

For discussing problems or just every-day conversation, the counseling center is always open to the students. The informal atmosphere and warmth of the counselors allow students to feel at ease. Here students may also seek help with program changes or advice which may serve to help them with college or vocational preparation.

Mr. Moe, Attendance Counselor along with Vice-Principal Bill Swenson, and Head Counselor Earl Bortz are an integral part of the administrative cabinet. Mr. Moe also serves as Student Director of Activities and as advisor for congress. While Mr. Swenson deals with student discipline, he also is involved with athletics holding the title of Director of Athletics.

I do my thing, and you do your thing.
I am not in this world to live up to your expectations.
And you are not in this world to live up to mine.
You are you and I am I,
And if by chance we find each other,
It's beautiful.

Routt,
Mark
